PROCURRI NAMED TO AJC'S LIST OF TOP WORKPLACES IN ATLANTA

Local IT firm earns top ranks from its employees

ATLANTA, [Ga.] March 27, 2015 – Procurri Corporation, a global independent distributor of data center equipment and multi-vendor maintenance provider, has been named by the Atlanta Journal-Constitution (AJC) as one of the Top 75 Small Workplaces (149 or fewer employees) in the Region. The annual ranking, announced on March 18, recognizes companies in the metro Atlanta area that make employees feel inspired and empowered to do great things.

“At Procurri, we pride ourselves in the revolutionary approach of how we do things differently to add value to our partners and customers,” said Zack Sexton, President. “This starts internally with our employees who are encouraged and supported by the Procurri leadership team in a number of ways. We are elated and humbled that our employees love to come to work everyday and have helped Procurri claim a spot on the AJC’s list of top workplaces.”

At Procurri, their pursuit of excellence begins with their employees who enjoy a work-life balance and a fun work environment. Internal growth opportunities are provided along with great healthcare options, paid college internships, team-building activities, volunteer opportunities and more. In addition, employee suggestions are always heard and recognition is given through their popular #ProcurriProps Program, which gives notice to coworkers who have gone the extra mile.

More than 1,400 companies were nominated or asked to participate in the 2015 contest by The AJC and its partner, Workplace Dynamics, after employees across the metro area responded to print and online solicitations that began appearing in September. From the companies nominated, the AJC has recognized 150 companies and organizations in Atlanta as Top Workplaces in 2015. These companies have been recognized as Top Workplaces based solely on surveys about the workplace completed by their employees.
